DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to communications: IDS and application filed on October 16, 2004.
2. Claims 1-26 are pending. Claim 1 is an independent claim.

Specification

3. The disclosure is objected to because it contains an embedded hyperlink and/or other form of browser-executable code See page 9/29, paragraph 51. This objection can be overcome by adding a bracket or parenthesis to prevent the code from becoming an active link. Applicant is required to delete the embedded hyperlink and/or other form of browser-executable code. See MPEP § 608.01.

Drawings

4. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a) because they fail to show reference numeral 310 as described in the specification on page 11/29. Any structural detail that is essential for a proper understanding of the disclosed invention should be shown in the drawing. MPEP § 608.02(d). Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as

Art Unit: 2178

"amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

6. Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Dewar (U.S. Pub 2003/0200136, filed April 10, 2003).

Regarding Independent Claim 1, Dewar discloses a data processing system for recruiting employees comprising:

- Having a company input data (See figure 12, wherein company inputs the details of the job for which they wish to create a solution, therefore company input data is received);
- Having a candidate input data (See figure 10, wherein the candidate is the applicant that is directed to the company's online application process that includes an application form, therefore candidate input is received);
- Comparing the company's data versus the candidate's data (paragraph 96, wherein the ranking or scoring of the answers is graded according to particular competencies known to be relevant to successful job performance, therefore the companies data which is the known competencies of the job is compared to the candidates data or score, and graded based on the companies data);
- Assigning a weight to company's data (paragraph 17, wherein a high predictive value is assigned greater weight, the high predictive or small subset of company data is weighted based on the hired applicants feedback to improve the hiring process); and
- Calculating a score based on the weights and comparison of the company's data and candidate's data (paragraph 93, wherein scores are calculated based on the weighted questions that include the comparison of the company's data and candidate's data).

Regarding Dependent claim 2, Dewar discloses where said company data consists of a set of goals, responsibilities, personal attributes and winning attributes (See paragraphs 26-76, Wherein several goals, responsibilities and personal attributes are listed and defined within the companies data. Dewar further indicates that the system may test an online applicant for any competency desired).

Regarding Dependent claim 3, Dewar discloses where said candidate's data consist of a set of achievements, experience/responsibilities, personal attributes and winning attributes (See paragraphs 26-76, Wherein several goals, responsibilities and personal attributes are listed and defined within the companies data. Dewar further indicates that the system may test an online applicant for any competency desired which inherently include achievements, experience/responsibilities, personal attributes and winning attributes).

Regarding Dependent claim 4, Dewar discloses where said model identification step uses artificial intelligent to review said data (See claim 150, wherein a model generating one or more job performance criteria predictors based on input includes the use of an artificial intelligent model).

Regarding Dependent claim 5, Dewar discloses where said model identification step uses fuzzy logic to review said data (See claim 150, although Dewar doesn't explicitly disclose the use of fuzzy logic, Dewar does mention that the model is a job performance criteria predictor and includes an artificial intelligence model, therefore it also includes fuzzy logic implementation since fuzzy logic is an AI model used to predict).

Regarding Dependent claims 6-11, 13-18 and 23- 25, the claims describe a specific number of attributes used to measure the performance of an applicant. Dewar discloses a list of attributes used to evaluate the applicant (See paragraphs 26-76, Wherein several goals, responsibilities and personal attributes are listed and defined within the companies data). Dewar further indicates that the system may test an online applicant for any competency desired which inherently include achievements, experience/responsibilities, personal attributes and winning attributes etc. Therefore Dewar indicates that the number of attributes or questions presented to an applicant for testing their competencies are non-limiting. Therefore the application of a restriction to certain attributes is the companies choice.

Regarding Dependent claim 12, Dewar discloses where said company data consists of a set of goals, responsibilities, personal attributes and winning attributes, and where said candidate's data consists of a set of achievements, experience/responsibilities, personal attributes and winning attributes (See paragraphs 26-76, Wherein several goals, responsibilities and personal attributes are listed and defined within the companies data. Dewar further indicates that the system may test an online applicant for any competency desired. Therefore Dewar indicates that the number of attributes or questions presented to an applicant for testing their competencies are non-limiting).

Regarding Dependent claim 19, Dewar discloses where the personal attributes required by a company are compared with the personal attributes profiled by a candidate (paragraphs 26-93, wherein a list showing the various company attributes are compared to the users data or response).

Regarding Dependent claim 20, Dewar discloses where the responsibilities required by a company are compared with experience/responsibilities of a candidate (paragraphs 107-108, wherein the company data is compared with the candidates input thereby generating a scored value, although it mentions that the data compared to generate the score is against other applicants, that information is part of the companies data since it is used to compare against the applicant and determine a score).

Regarding Dependent claim 21, Dewar discloses where the goals are compared with the achievements (paragraphs 26-93, wherein a list showing the various company attributes are compared to the users data or response, since Dewar states that the list is non-limiting it inherently includes the comparison of goals and achievements for determining a score).

Regarding Dependent claim 22, Dewar discloses which is accessed over a network (paragraph 15, wherein the system utilizes a communication network to communicate bet an applicant terminal and a system server).

Regarding Dependent claim 26, Dewar discloses where the winning attributes required by a company are compared with the winning attributes described by a candidate (paragraphs 26-93, wherein a list showing the various company attributes are compared to the users data or response, since Dewar states that the list is non-limiting it inherently includes the comparison of winning attributes of applicant to the attributes of the company for determining a score).
